DOG CAPTURES AN EAGLE

WHICH TRIES TO EAT HIM.

SPECIAL BY CABLE TO THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC AND THE NEW YORK HERALD. Paris, Oct. 22.—(Copyright, 1904.)—A dog belonging to a farmer in the vicinity of Mommans captured a big eagle recently after a desperate struggle.

The bird had picked out the dog for a meal while dining in the sun. The dog, feeling its talons in his back, squirmed quickly around, and bit the eagle between the legs. The bird let go, but the dog hung on and completely subdued the eagle.

When the owner of the dog arrived the bird was still alive, with the four-toothed victim lying on top, keeping guard. The eagle measured a meter and a half from tip to tip of its outstretched wings.

WHISKY TRAP DETECTED IN EAST.

Artificial Concoctions Mixed at Saloons in All Parts of New York.

SMALL FORCE OF INSPECTORS.

Bartender Tells of Having adulterated Scores of Barrels of Liquor by Using Spurious Spirits.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
New York, Oct. 22.—"Artificial whisky, which costs the liquor seller only 2 cents, and, in some cases, only 1 cent a drink," said Coroner Scholer, "is being sold at 10 cents a drink in all parts of New York City, the dealer thus making a profit of 8 or 9 cents on every drink, so far as the actual cost of the concoction is concerned.

Of course, this stuff is not whisky at all, though it is not at all necessary as it is fatally poisonous as the beverage recently sold so extensively in the 'Stryker's Farm' district seems to have been. The preliminary analysis by the Health Department leaves no doubt that the liquid sold in Fritsch's saloon, at No. 723 Tenth avenue, contained wood alcohol. It is not certain, however, that Herman Sachs, of No. 238 West Forty-ninth street, who is supposed to be the latest victim, died as a result of drinking that liquor. We found a liquor flask in his room, but had no label, and we are not yet sure where it came from.

The autopsy on the body of Sachs showed valvular lesions of the heart, calcareous deposits in the valves and also emphysema of the lungs, or a sort of asthma. It is likely that man could not have lived long anyhow, but whether or not poisoned whisky accelerated his death remains to be proved. His stomach, therefore, like that of others, has been sent to Doctor Atkinson, chief chemist of the Department of Health, for analysis.

RECEIPTS FOR LIQUORS.
Coroner Scholer held in his hand as he spoke a little paper-covered book, which, he said, he had managed to obtain from an extensive downtown wholesale dealer, and which contained a list of receipts, set forth in great detail, for the mixing of all kinds of spurious beverages. By following these directions the unscrupulous liquor dealer or rectifier, of course, violates the law, but he makes an illicit profit of several hundred per cent on the spurious drinks sold.

Of course, this book was not intended for general circulation. The wholesale dealer who issues it is supposed to put it into the hands only of "discreet" customers, who are not scrupulous and who are supposed to be the buyers of the concoction. The wholesaler's profit comes not only in the sale of the ingredients openly set forth in his book, but, most important, he might be bought elsewhere, but he is shrewd enough to insert in almost every formula some necessary word, which is designated in the catalogue merely by a cabalistic combination of letters and figures.

This particular substance is his own secret and the would-be purveyor of spurious drinks must buy it from him or else lack a necessary word of deception. In making out his order he uses the cabalistic letters employed in the book for these particular chemicals, which are not named openly, and pays the catalogue price for them.

Coroner Scholer said, were not actually poisonous, and would not produce such results as wood alcohol. He expressed the belief that some enemy of Michael J. Auliffe, who had recently left other saloons to become Fritsch's bartender, had undertaken to play a trick on him with results that were fatal to McAniff and many of his regular customers. If Fritsch is to be believed, he himself and his friends of others drank from the suspected barrel without harmful results, and this feature of the case is puzzling the coroner.

A bartender, who gave the name of Henry Plumb, and his address as No. 680 Broadway, and who said he was a friend of McAniff, volunteered a different theory. "I was drinking with McAniff the night before he was taken ill," said Mr. Plumb. "Mac had been drinking very heavily. It is my belief that in mixing the stuff in the whisky barrel, not being quite himself, he got in too much alcohol. I have myself mixed scores of barrels of bogus whisky in saloons in this neighborhood.

The same thing is done all over the city, where so-called cheap whisky is sold. A high proof alcohol known as 'Berlin spirits' is often used. It is distilled from potatoes and is extremely powerful. Its fumes even causing intoxication. With this a little muscatel is used to cut the alcohol or mellow it and a little oil of rose to flavor and color it. From one barrel of this 'Berlin spirits' four barrels of whisky can be made, and by adding sufficient dilution to make the specific gravity correspond with the standard, even if it happens along to make a test, cannot easily detect the imposition.

Coroner Scholer said the Internal Revenue collector for the Third District, which includes all of Manhattan Island north and east of line drawn from the East River through Catharine street, along the Bowery to Houston street, and to the north end of the island. In this vast territory are more than 300 licensed rectifiers, to say nothing of retailers who compound and sell beverages illegally without paying the rectifiers' license of $100.

Mr. Edman, has thirteen Deputy Collectors to collect the taxes in his district, and five gaugers, who are expected to prevent and detect frauds and to make monthly reports for the district. Coroner Scholer thinks the force is inadequate to protect the public.

"It is so public," he said, "that the St. Louis affair," said he. "There does not seem to be a sufficient force for constant inspection in behalf of the Federal Government. John Sines, United States revenue agent, told a force of Federal deputies took up the task of making a thorough investigation, and scores of samples of whisky taken from saloons in the neighborhood will be subjected to analysis."

WONDERFUL CURE BY CUTICURA

"I take the liberty to drop you a few lines to let you know of my wonderful cure by Cuticura. My head was one mass of scabs and my forehead was covered down almost to my eyebrows. I had to wear my hat all the time. My legs, arms, and body were covered with spots in size from a pin-head to as large as a silver dollar. A white, crusty scab would form and itch, and words cannot express how I suffered for fifteen years. I tried many doctors and all kinds of treatments, but could get no help, and thought there was no hope for me. While in Michigan last summer a friend told me to get Cuticura. I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, and in three days my head was as clear as it ever was. I applied the ointment night and morning, also taking a hot bath three times a week, and using the ointment freely after the bath. After using one cake of soap and two boxes of ointment I was completely cured, without a mark on my head or body. I was so pleased I felt like taking my hat in my hand and running down the street to tell every one I met what Cuticura had done for me. I shall never use any other soap but Cuticura. If any one is in doubt about this, they may write to me. (Signed) H. B. FRANKLIN, 717 Washington St., Allegheny, Pa."

THIS MAN VOICED THE BIG ORGAN

IN FESTIVAL HALL AT WORLD'S FAIR

—Photograph by Hayes.
JOHN W. WHITELEY.
Festival Hall organ at the World's Fair.

Who spent five months and a half voicing John W. Whiteley, an English organ builder, was engaged from May 1 to October 10 voicing the Festival Hall organ, the largest instrument of its kind in the world, and now that he has completed his work, and his wife are spending several weeks seeing the World's Fair.

Every day during the time Mr. Whiteley devoted many hours to his work on the great organ. Even while the French master, Alexandre Guilmant, was giving some of his concerts, Whiteley was in the interior of the organ pitching the great pipes to their proper tune.

It was a huge and arduous task, the voicing of each of the 10,000 pipes, and Mr. Whiteley was on the verge of a nervous breakdown when he finally pronounced his work done. During the five months and a half he had not missed a day, including Sundays.

Although Mr. Whiteley's work is extremely trying on one's nerves, he appears to be much younger than he really is. He was born in Liverpool in 1864 and from his childhood has known nothing but trade to explain the charge to them. One of the four Greeks there was the leader, by name Simones. He is tall with dark eyes and nose like a beak.

"Why," he asked Moustaki in his native tongue, "does not the rich Mr. Morgan come to this place and complain in person? Is the policeman his servant? Is the street in the control of Mr. Morgan? We have our licenses to sell on the street. Is Mr. Morgan greater than the city that gives us our licenses?"

Moustaki made haste to translate this reply to Magistrate Baker, who smiled. Demetrius Simones saw the smile and was comforted.

"I am sorry," said the Magistrate, "but you are not accused of interfering with Mr. Morgan. You are accused of a violation of a city ordinance. I shall have to let you go."

Regrettably Moustaki translated the

Between-Season Wraps
BUILT LUXURIOUSLY.

SPECIAL BY CABLE TO THE ST. LOUIS REPUBLIC AND THE NEW YORK HERALD.
Paris, Oct. 22.—(Copyright, 1904.)—The latest freak in Paris fashion is the "Cache Miroir" for the autumn between-season wear. These charming wraps, to supplement thin dresses and hide makeshifts before the winter costume is bought, are made in luxurious materials, falling in folds like classical drapery. They are most suitable for drawing-room use. The sleeves are generally mere holes for the hands to peep through.

Shirts waists continue to be worn with fur garments quite as much as with tailor-made jackets. They are slightly pouched in front and close fitting in the back. The sleeves are full in upper arm and tight fitting in the forearm. Hungarian sleeves are also much favored.

Muffs are very large and of a long, cylindrical shape, made principally of sable, ermine and chinchilla. I saw one this week at Max's, fitted with a set of small toilet articles in a receptacle at the back, opening by means of a flap, dissimulated in fur.

CHLOROFORMED WOMAN
FOUGHT HER DENTIST.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
Milwaukee, Oct. 22.—Chloroform administered to a young woman patient in the office of Samuel D. Friedman, dentist, in the Mack block, caused considerable excitement for awhile and resulted in an ugly gash in the dentist's right hand.

The young woman developed unexpected strength and attempted to jump from the chair.

It required the full strength of the two dentists and another assistant to prevent her from carrying out her attempts, and in the struggle Doctor Friedman's hand was badly cut by rings on the hand of the patient.
